Devotion - An Unauthorized Tribute to Michael Jackson Scheduled for Release on the iPad

Metatron Supports First of 5,000 (and counting) Movies and TV Shows for New Mobile Tablet Device

San Diego, CA - February 1, 2010 - Metatron Inc. (OTC Pink Sheets: MRNJ) today announced that its i-Mobilize subsidiary has scheduled the release of the Michael Jackson tribute movie "Devotion" on the iPad, iPhone and iTouch platforms, under a license from Infinity Entertainment Group. This is the first of over 5,000 titles that the company will release in High Definition format for the iPad. The new HD app is currently under review and should hit the iTunes app store next week.

Devotion is a multi-faceted and personal look at Michael Jackson's rise to the top and how he conquered the world, changed music forever, fell from grace and shocked us all with his departure on the eve of history's biggest come-back tour. From his musical debut at the age of four to his sudden, tragic death in 2009, Michael Jackson remained one of the world's most successful, influential, and beloved pop stars. This unauthorized biography charts the singer's eventful--and sometimes controversial--life and career through interviews with friends, family, and colleagues, delving into such topics as his charity work, his moving memorial service, and his permanent spot as a tabloid fixture.

Joe Riehl, CEO of Metatron Inc. said, "All of our content partners have provided us with HD versions of their videos in anticipation of the iPad. Even though our existing portfolio of movies and apps are compatible with this revolutionary new mobile tablet device already, we will utilize the capabilities and larger screen size of the iPad by including HD quality video in our apps. We thought we'd start off with a real bang by bringing one of the world's most popular and entertainers to the iPad."
